

MASTER OF PUBLIC ADMINISTRATION

Why a master's degree in Public Administration?

The Master of Public Administration (MPA) is the professional degree for individuals preparing for leadership roles in public service. The program is designed to help students develop the skills and techniques required to create and implement policies, projects and programs that resolve important societal problems, while addressing organizational, human resource and budgetary challenges.

Why a MPA at Bowling Green State University?

The MPA program at BGSU is NASPAA accredited and is a flexible professional degree that can be completed on a full-time or part-time basis, with evening classes offered for working professionals. The program emphasizes applied coursework and includes ample opportunities for students to engage in projects that serve community clients, providing relevant, real-world experience. Since the arena of public service is so vast, the MPA is designed to enable you to synthesize and transfer your education, volunteer work and professional experiences into a meaningful career.

Learning outcomes

Graduates of the MPA program will be well-equipped to address problems and challenges now and in the years ahead through the promotion of intellectual development, scholarship, leadership, ethics and training in basic and applied research relevant to the public and nonprofit sectors. The program trains students in the theory, methods and practice of public administration through a combination of coursework, research and experiential learning via public service and client-based projects.

Professional opportunities

MPA graduates are prepared for work in a wide variety of public service fields including all levels of government, nonprofit organizations, international NGOs, academia and the private sector. Recent graduates of the program have been hired as grant writers, legislative aides, state auditors, policy analysts, human resource directors, county administrators, event and social media coordinators, fulfillment analysts and communication directors, just to name a few.

Program strength and uniqueness

- This NASPAA accredited program can be completed full-time or part-time, with classes offered in the evenings for working professionals.
- Flexible course requirements allow students to tailor the program to prepare for individualized career goals.
- Emphasis is placed on applied coursework, with projects for community clients providing real-world experience prior to graduation.
- The MPA Student Association promotes professional development and social events, helping to foster community among students and faculty.
- Faculty in the MPA program are active in research and committed to uniquely effective pedagogies including case studies, service learning, simulations, lectures, seminars and field trips.
- A low faculty-to-student ratio assures small class sizes and individualized attention.
- All undergraduate majors may apply . . . there are no prerequisites.

"I was able to apply what I learned at the city level to what I learned in the classroom, and was able to bring that back to share with other students. At the same time, I was immediately able to take things I learned in the classroom to apply to my council work and various community projects."

— Daniel Gordon '14, Bowling Green City Council Member

Admission requirements

The program strongly recommends that applicants have a minimum of a 3.0/4.0 undergraduate grade point average (GPA). Applicants are required to submit scanned copies of official or unofficial transcripts from all institutions attended. Upon admission, final official or notarized copies of transcripts from all institutions where degrees were earned and diplomas from international institutions must be submitted. Applicants are also required to submit official scores from the Graduate Record Examination (GRE) or the Graduate Management Admission Test (GMAT).

All applicants must submit a statement outlining their interests in the degree and public administration. A minimum of two (2) letters of recommendation from individuals with knowledge of the applicant's qualifications and ability to successfully complete graduate study are also required.

International applicants are also required to submit scores from the International English Language Testing System (IELTS), the Pearson Test of English Academic (PTEA), or the Test of English as a Foreign Language (TOEFL). Successful completion of ELS 112 will also be accepted for this requirement.
