

CFDR Update: April 3, 2015

Workshop: An Information Session on the Ohio Longitudinal Data Archive (OLDA) – April 10th

Friday, April 10, 1:00-3:00 pm

247D Technology Building computer lab

Lisa Neilson of the Ohio Education Research Center will present an overview of the OLDA, what it is and how it is being used, and then discuss the data access in detail. The OLDA contains de-identified records for all Ohio residents who have attended public education and training institutions, earned wages in Ohio, or used public services in Ohio. Please rsvp to the CFDR office as space is limited: cfdr@bgsu.edu.

Congratulations to I-Fen Lin and Kei Nomaguchi!

I-Fen Lin has received a grant from the PSID (funded by NIA) to support her research project titled “Parent’s and Adult Children’s Reports of Intergenerational Transfers.” Kei Nomaguchi received funding from NIH for her grant titled “Social and Interpersonal Environments and Parent-Child Relationship Quality from Preschool to Adolescence.”

Protecting Data Confidentiality in an Era with No Privacy – April 10th*Lecture sponsored by the NIH Office of Behavioral and Social Sciences Research.*

Speaker: Jerome Reiter, Ph.D., Mrs. Alexander Hehmeyer Professor of Statistical Science, Duke University

Date: Friday, April 10, 2015, 2:00-3:00 pm

Location: Natcher Conference Center, National Institutes of Health Campus, Bethesda, MD

Livestreaming at <http://videocast.nih.gov>Register Now: <https://eventbrite.com/event/15535365697/>

Webinar: Mapping Research Approaches to the Demographic Dividend

Thursday, April 23, 2015, 10:00-11:00 am

Registration link: <https://attendee.gotowebinar.com/register/3133908671339844866>

After registering you will receive a confirmation email containing information about joining the webinar. More about this PRB-sponsored webinar is at this link: <http://www.prb.org/Events/2015/mapping-demographic-dividend-webinar.aspx>.