V. Curriculum Development

2001	Developed a new graduate course entitled Professional Development. This course is designed to structure the pre-professional training of graduate students in sociology, and to ensure that students have a broad range of skills and experiences so they are well prepared to begin careers as professional sociologists.
1997	Developed a new graduate course entitled Sociology of Mental Illness.

1987	Developed a new course entitled Microcomputer Applications in the Social Sciences.
1985	Led the Department of Sociology's revision of the Master's Program in Criminal Justice.
1975-1977	Participated in the creation of a new, interdisciplinary program in the behavioral sciences, structured along non-traditional lines, at the University of Houston at Clear Lake City. Created plans of study tailored to the needs of individual students. All the courses I taught at UH/CLC were offered there for the first time by me.

VI. Professional Development

2007 (Spring semester)	Faculty development leave. Completing work on a research project, "The Newsworthiness of Executions."
1998	Participated in training for "Springboard" (a mentoring program for new college students).
1998	Participated in training for web page developers, conducted by the BGSU Center for Teaching, Learning and Technology. The skills learned in this program enabled me to build and maintain a web page that I use extensively in teaching all my undergraduate courses.
1997 (Spring semester)	Faculty development leave. Completed work on research project funded by the Ohio Department of Mental Health.
1988-89	Faculty development leave. Moved temporarily Mt. Holyoke College, South Hadley, Massachusetts, to analyze results of the 1987 National Punishment Survey, which I had designed.
1986	Visiting Scholar at the University of Michigan, Inter-university Consortium for Political and Social Science. Received advanced training in quantitative methods.
1980	Participated in 40-hour training program for (USC) instructors in University 101, a special course and program designed to assist entering freshmen to adjust to the university. Emphasis of the program was on developing personal support networks, learning about university resources and improving study skills.
