

CSP & HIED University Community Fellowship Award

Purpose of Award:

The University Community Fellowship Award is presented each year at the annual Convocation of the Higher Education Administration and College Student Personnel Programs in recognition of extraordinary contributions by faculty, staff, or students to building collegial working relationships at Bowling Green State University.

The HIED and CSP Programs Sponsor this award because of their commitment to organizational development through the fostering of mutual respect among all members of a college and university community.

Criteria for Selection:

The recipient(s) will have:

1. Promoted a sense of pride and a spirit of community among all constituent groups of Bowling Green State University;
2. Initiated organizational development efforts within work teams that help realize the human potential of individuals while fostering cooperation among them.
3. Demonstrated effective leadership through collaboration;
4. Exemplified high standards of professional behavior regarding cross-constituent cross-divisional and multicultural relationships;
5. Contributed to the further development of a learning community for faculty, staff and students.

Procedures:

1. Nominations of faculty, staff or students outside the HIED and CSP Programs will be sought from faculty and students of the HIED and CSP Programs. A nomination form, letter or memo listing the criteria will be distributed;
2. Nominations are to be submitted by a specified date to the chair of the Fall Convocation Committee (or the designated committee member);
3. The selection will be made by members of the Fall Convocation Committee;
4. The recipient will be invited to present brief remarks at the annual Convocation;
5. The recipient will receive a framed certificate of award and have his/her/their name engraved on a permanent plaque to be displayed in the HIED and CSP Programs Office (330 Ed. Bldg.).
