

JOURNALISM

BGSU COLLEGE OF ARTS AND SCIENCES

Students majoring in journalism develop the personal and professional skills and the broad educational foundations necessary for effective life-long learning in this technologically changing, multi-cultural society. Students learn to analyze and deliver content in a variety of media forms such as video, podcasts, print and social media. A major in journalism balances skills training and courses about the media and society, which are embedded in a liberal arts education.

College of Arts and Sciences – Journalism

Points of Pride

- The School of Media and Communication provides a mix of classroom instruction and practical, hands-on experience in state-of-the-art production studios in the newly renovated Michael & Sara Kuhlin Center. The school also provides opportunities for students to connect with successful alumni and media organizations.
- Students gain experience in our student media organization, Falcon Media, which includes The BG News, BG-24 News, The Key, WBGU-FM, Falcon Radio, and BG Radio Sports.
- Our journalism program is nationally accredited by the Accrediting Council on Education in Journalism and Mass Communications (ACEJMC).
- Memberships in the BGSU chapters of the Society of Professional Journalists, Online News Association, and National Association of Black Journalists provide experiential learning and networking opportunities.
- Our two-internship requirement guarantees significant practical experience prior to graduation.

Students may want to consider a minor or second major in the following areas:

- English
- History
- International Studies
- Media Production
- Media Studies
- Photography
- Political Science

What can I do with this major?

Journalism graduates pursue careers in the following areas:

- Digital Media
- Editing
- Media and Communications
- News Reporting
- News Writing
- Photojournalism
- Public Relations
- Radio Broadcasting
- Sports Announcing
- Sports Information
- Sports Writing
- Television Broadcasting

For more information

Journalism
419-372-8349
bgsu.edu/journalism

A Public University for the Public Good

The School of Media and Communication develops individuals who communicate effectively, contribute to their communities, and engage globally with individuals, governments, businesses, and non-profit and civic organizations. The school is a strong advocate for ethical professional practices, equal access to media technologies, inclusivity, and freedoms of speech and press in order to build a more deliberative and democratic community.