New Dataset: Survey on the Identity, Kinship, Well-Being and Social Justice Experiences of Young Adults Conceived Through Sperm Donation
The survey was designed to probe the identity, kinship, well-being, and social justice experiences of donor conceived adults. The survey research firm Abt SRBI of New York City fielded the survey through Survey Sampling International (SSI) during the period of July 10-28, 2008, using a web-based panel that includes more than a million households across the U.S. About the survey.
