Columbia University Poverty Tracker Data Training Workshop – Application deadline extended to March 15

The first annual Poverty Tracker Data Training Workshop at Columbia University will be in New York City on May 18-19, 2017. The workshop is designed to familiarize participants with the data available in the New York City Longitudinal Survey of Well-being, a repeated panel study which is conducted by the Columbia Population Research Center and which tracks the dynamics of poverty, hardship, and well-being among representative samples of New York City residents. The workshop description and online application is available at <http://www.povertytrackerdata.cupop.columbia.edu/>. Additional information about the Poverty Tracker is available at <http://povertytracker.robinhood.org/#home>.

Panel Study of Income Dynamics (PSID) Data User Workshop – Applications due April 14

This five-day workshop will be held June 12-16, 2017 at the University of Michigan. The workshop will orient participants to the content and structure of the Core PSID, its special topics modules, and the PSID Child Development Supplement and PSID Transition into Adulthood Supplement. The workshop pairs morning instructional sessions led by experienced PSID researchers and staff with afternoon guided lab sessions in which users construct their own analytic data files. Learn more about the workshop and apply to participate through the ICPSR Summer Program.
