

CFDR Update: December 15, 2017

Optimal Aging Small Grants Program

The Optimal Aging Institute at Bowling Green State University announces the availability of small grants for innovative and/or collaborative research, educational programs, or community engagement projects focused on helping individuals age optimally. More details and submission instructions are at this link.

BGSU's Building Strength Grants Program

The proposal deadline for Mid-Range to Major Research Project Grants is February 16, 2018. Proposals for Small project grants are due January 16 and April 16, 2018. Guidelines can be found here:

<http://www.bgsu.edu/research-economic-development/office-of-sponsored-programs-and-research/internal-grant-programs.html>

RAND Summer Institute – Application deadline March 5, 2018

The annual RAND Summer Institute on the Demography, Economics, Psychology, and Epidemiology of Aging addresses critical issues facing our aging population. The 2018 conference will be held July 11-12 at the RAND Corporation headquarters campus in Santa Monica, California, just after the Mini-Medical School for Social Scientists on July 9-10.

Spring Speaker Series Begins Wednesday, February 7th

Dr. Karen Benjamin Guzzo

Department of Sociology, Bowling Green State University

Wednesday, February 7, 12:30-1:30 pm

Bowen-Thompson Student Union, Room 207

Spring Speaker Series Schedule • Spring Workshop Schedule