

CFDR Update: July 30, 2021

DemSemX Session on Academic Midlife – July 30

The second session of the DemSemX series on 'Academic Midlife' will be today, Friday, July 30th at 2 pm ET. This event is co-sponsored across a subset of population centers including CFDR. The goal is to focus on academic career decisions and investments that come after tenure, with three panelists on each session. Click here for details. Join via Zoom at <https://go.wisc.edu/25w671>.

Congratulations to Annette Mahoney!

Congratulations to Dr. Mahoney on the publication of her new book, The Science of Children's Religious and Spiritual Development (Elements in Child Development). Cambridge: Cambridge University Press. To download the book for free until Aug 10, 2021, just go to this link

<https://www.cambridge.org/core/elements/science-of-childrens-religious-and-spiritual-development/EC5AD95722154A742516779AB50D5940>, scroll to Save PDF, and download.

Congratulations to Lisa Carlson!

Lisa Carlson is the recipient of the 2021 Adamchak Award. This award was established by Donald and Susan Adamchak (former recipients of Ph.D. and M.A. degrees in Sociology from BGSU) to recognize excellence and achievement in the area of demography.

Attention ASA Presenters

For those of you presenting at ASA, please remember to include the appropriate acknowledgements (CFDR, Add Health, or others as appropriate) in your presentations and papers. Also, when you send your manuscripts to discussants, please consider sending your manuscripts to the CFDR as well to be included as Working Papers on our website.
