Pedagogical Projects

- Based on your experience to date, could you talk about an element of course content or an aspect of your teaching practice that you would like to update, refine, develop?
- If you have a specific teaching development project—of any scale—that you are thinking about, mapping out, or actively engaged in:
  - Describe the project in broad strokes.
  - How and why have you identified the area(s) for teaching development or improvement that the project represents?
  - What are the anticipated impacts of the project on your pedagogy? On student learning? On the academic program(s) that you serve?

- If you are engaged in research, creative work, and/or major service roles, how do you want your development in those areas to connect and balance with your development as a teacher?
