INTRODUCTION

The Academic Year in Austria is an overseas study plan sponsored jointly by Bowling Green State University's Department of German and Russian and the Office of International Studies of Ohio University, Athens, Ohio. It is held annually in association with the University of Salzburg and has the following features that recommend it to the students wishing to study a year overseas:

1. a nine-months period of academic studies, divided into two semesters and carrying no less than 30 semester (equals 45 quarter) hours of credit; there are also generous vacations at Christmas, Easter, and between semesters.
2. a balanced curriculum constituting a varied program of studies in the German language, literature, and culture and in areas such as history, geography, music history, art history, and education;
3. an environment which demands constant use of German;
4. a flexible group program supervised by an American professor, familiar with American and European university life.

BACKGROUND

The Academic Year in Austria program is operated in the city of Salzburg in cooperation with the University of Salzburg. The University of Salzburg, originally founded in 1622 and re-opened in 1962, offers courses in the liberal arts, selected sciences, theology, and law, and it cooperates with the well-known music academy, the Mozarteum. The city of Salzburg, with a population of 115,000, is equally famous as a cultural center and as a vacation city. For years, Salzburg's music and drama festivals (Salzburger Festspiele) have attracted visitors from all over the world, and the nearby mountains offer excellent facilities for hiking and skiing. Salzburg is located in the northcentral section of Austria, in the heart of Central Europe, only a few short hours from Munich, Vienna, Venice, Innsbruck, and many other well-known European cities.

WHO MAY ENROLL

Although the Academic Year in Austria was established primarily for undergraduate students of Bowling Green State University (and our cooperating institution, Ohio University, Athens, Ohio), it is open to qualified students from all other Ohio colleges and universities, provided that they satisfy regular university requirements for transient (i.e. transfer) students.* All students should have completed at least the first two years of college German or the equivalent, have at least sophomore standing, and be in good academic standing (not on probation). Students from other universities must meet B.G.S.U. admission requirements for transfer (transient) students.

Participants will be asked to use the foreign language exclusively throughout their study abroad. All students are expected to abide by regulations governing the program, and the sponsoring institutions reserve the right to require the withdrawal of any student whose personal or academic conduct, including excessive absences, warrants such action.

COST OF PROGRAM

Transportation from the student's hometown to the major airport closest to the program location (i.e. Munich, Germany) and back is the independent responsibility of the participant and costs are not included in the program fees. (See the section on "Transportation", below.)

The over-all fee for 1973-74 will be $2205.00. (As with the approximate costs of transportation, this figure is subject to change.) Included in the fee are the following: Tuition for the whole academic year (3 quarters = 2 semesters) at the current level for Bowling Green State University (3 times $260.00); room (dormitory space) and costs of meals for 273 days (from October 1, 1973 to June 30, 1974, inclusively, and covering vacation periods); cultural events; emergency medical costs (for major medical expenses see the section on "Insurance"); some educational group travel on selected days and weekends during the academic year; use of certain student facilities at the University of Salzburg and the assigned dormitories; extra costs for specific courses taken at the University of Salzburg; and transportation (bus or rail) from Munich (Germany) to Salzburg (Austria) and back.

Not included are: U.S. and transatlantic transportation; costs of lodgings and food prior to October 1, 1973 and after June 30, 1974; fees for obtaining U.S. passport; school supplies and books; vacation travel during regular vacation periods and before and after the academic year; incidental expenses (clothing, cosmetics, toiletries, personal entertainment costs, etc.). Since personal spending habits vary greatly, and since

* A limited number of students from colleges outside of Ohio and/or who are not residents of Ohio will also be considered. Normally, out-of-state fees ($381 per quarter) will have to be charged additionally. In the past, a small number of out-of-state students were granted fee waivers for these additional fees, and we hope to be able to continue this practice.

some students may decide to undertake independent travel before or after the close of the regular academic program or during the official vacations (Christmas, between semesters, Easter), it is difficult to estimate funds which might be spent beyond the program fee. However, past experience has shown that an amount from between $300.00 and $450.00 as personal spending money should be sufficient. (Traveler checks are recommended.)

The over-all fee (excluding transportation) is only approximately $250 above the basic costs of a year of study at a typical state university in Ohio for 1973/74. At that, the costs include dormitory room and meal money throughout all vacation periods (which is not the case when studying on the home campus.)

FINANCIAL ASSISTANCE

No special scholarships or fee waivers are available for the Academic Year Abroad program. Bowling Green students who are holders of university or State scholarships may continue to hold these awards while studying abroad. Students who have other scholarships or loans should check with the sponsoring agency whether they may apply these to the program costs. State or federally assisted loans can be applied for independently.

INSURANCE

Since many students have medical protection through family insurance plans, the purchase of other coverage is not required. However, the university recommends that every student be insured through a travel accident and sickness policy and a travel personal effects policy, or be adequately covered by his family's insurance. A typical comprehensive policy includes an accident and sickness insurance with coverage of up to $10,000.00. In case of illness, such a policy provides about $20.00 per day for hospital expenses. A travel personal effects policy usually insures against loss of or damage to personal effects, with the exception of money, tickets, passports, and the like, to the extent of $500.00.

Medical facilities in Salzburg are quite good and comparatively inexpensive. A basic minimum health service program is provided for all participants in the Academic Year Abroad free of charge. It covers emergency treatment, first visit to a physician, as well as acute conditions requiring outpatient treatment for minor illnesses or injuries and a referral to specialists in cases of serious illnesses. It does not provide for hospitalization or surgical intervention nor for treatment of existing and chronic ailments.

Parents (or the individual student, if over 21 years of age) must assume complete responsibility for providing adequate insurance protection for their daughters or sons.

STAFF

The Program Director for 1973-74 will be a member of the faculty of the Department of German and Russian, Bowling Green State University (Ohio), who will teach the German literature course. Other teaching personnel are drawn from the staff of the University of Salzburg and the Pedagogic Institute (College of Education) at Salzburg.

PROGRAM OF STUDIES AND CLASS ARRANGEMENTS

In order to integrate our students into university life in Salzburg, we follow the Salzburg Calendar. Because the University of Salzburg maintains a semester schedule, the academic course program also is on a semester basis. For students from colleges on a quarter system (such as BGSU and most of the Ohio universities,) the conversion back to quarter credits is accomplished at the end of the year-abroad, when all grades are posted and transferred. Since the emphasis in the Academic Year Abroad Program is on German language and civilization, all classes will be taught in German. The academic load of a regular undergraduate student will be a minimum of 15 hours per semester. Attendance in class is required.

The program of courses listed is tentative, especially as far as the second semester is concerned. However, in each of the two semesters at least 15 semester hours of courses will be offered by the program. Thus students are assured that they will receive at least 30 semester hours (=45 quarter hours) for the academic year.

During the first semester, all students take the courses on the program list. These courses are taught specifically for students in our program. During the second semester, those students who qualify in German may substitute one or two courses (more in exceptional cases) from those regularly offered by the University of Salzburg in place of the program-taught courses. Registration for the second quarter will therefore be provisional only at this time. Actual choice of second semester courses takes place at the time of registration for the second semester in Salzburg in early March of 1973. (The catalogue of courses of the University of Salzburg for 2nd semester does not appear in print until January of the year the courses are to be offered; therefore we cannot list the spring semester offerings at this time. However, the range of courses in the humanities, the arts, and the sciences is quite generous, though often quite specialized.)

Facilities: The courses are taught in classrooms provided by the University of Salzburg; the language laboratory and other academic space is the same used by the "Anglistische Institut" and the "Deutsch für Ausländer" courses. The university sports facilities and intra-mural sports programs are also available to our students. The fees for this are paid by the program.

List of Program Courses: (Subject to change between now and October 1973)

For conversion purposes, one semester hour equals one and one half (1.5) quarter hours credit. Bowling Green State University course numbers are listed and students may compare the detailed course descriptions of the BGSU Bulletin for further information.

For regularly enrolled students of Bowling Green State University, all courses listed above will be credited as hours toward graduation. All courses in German count as the equivalent course at BGSU. (German 317/318 may be repeated in Salzburg, if the student has taken the course prior to departure.) Non-German courses count as electives and in some cases may be applied to certain group requirements. Students should meet with their academic advisors as soon as possible to plan their remaining year(s) on the home campus (so that they may complete all required courses, minors, and electives before and/or after their year abroad).

Students from other universities and colleges should secure the approval of their study plans and courses abroad in advance by their academic advisors and their colleges.

LODGINGS AND MEALS

Students will be housed in clean, modern dormitories. To assure maximum use of the German language, an attempt is made for each student to have a German-speaking roommate. Meals are taken independently for purposes of the students' convenience, i.e., students may eat where they choose. There are some cooking facilities in the dormitories, there is the university cafeteria (quite inexpensive), and there are many restaurants in Salzburg where good food at reasonable prices may be obtained. Each student is given a daily food allowance (paid out weekly) to pay for the cost of his meals. (The student reaction by our participants to this independent meal plan has been excellent and it is much preferred over the typical U.S. dormitory food arrangements.)

TRAVEL WHILE ABROAD

Students are free to travel individually during the holiday and recess periods. There will be several educational-cultural group excursions on selected weekend days paid for by the program. These trips usually include such cities as Munich, Vienna, and the many interesting sites near Salzburg. Students may also remain in Europe after the end of the academic year, if they care to do so.

In the event of a cancellation of the program due to insufficient enrollment or other factors, a full refund of monies paid will be made. Any student who, for personal reasons, withdraws from the program after having been accepted, may forfeit the application fee. A schedule of refunds, in the event of withdrawal from the program, will be provided applicants once they have been formally accepted.

TRANSATLANTIC TRANSPORTATION

Arrangements for travel from your hometown to Europe is entirely your free choice. The program can only help by advising you of the best and least expensive modes of transportation. Generally you should first inquire with your own travel agent, as soon as you have decided to go abroad. In the past two years, our students have found the so-called "youth fares" on any scheduled international airline to be the overall most economical way.

The prices change from year to year. For 1972/73, a round-trip ticket from New York to Germany and back cost about $220. The maximum age for youth fares was first 23, then 25 years. For 1973/74, the official prices and regulations are not yet definite, but it appears that a roundtrip will cost closer to $250 from New York. The maximum age for "youth" fares may be rolled back to 22 years. (There is also a "group travel" fare for 1973 which your travel agent can tell you about; also the roundtrip fares on Icelandic Airlines, a carrier that usually has the lowest fares to Europe.) If you have no travel agent in your hometown, we will be glad to supply the name of a good travel agency in Bowling Green (or Columbus) which will be glad to assist you and get you the latest information.

The destination city most practical for you would be Munich, Germany. It is only about 2 hours from Salzburg by train or bus. If a number of our students plan to arrive in Munich by the morning of October 1, 1973 (leaving the US by air the day before), we will arrange for a special bus to meet you in Munich. Please indicate if you would be interested to go with other students from the group on the same day and flight-- in that case we could arrange to have you booked on the same plane eastbound.) Students arriving individually on different dates should take a train from Munich to Salzburg and their fare will be reimbursed by the program.
