The Center for Regional Development at Bowling Green State University is an interdisciplinary research and technical assistance center with expertise in regional economics and community development. Our mission is to design and implement innovative and pragmatic solutions to a wide variety of regional challenges. We engage a wide-range of public, non-profit, and private sector partners and rely on data-driven analysis to identify opportunities for economic and community growth in our region. As an Economic Development Administration (EDA) University Center, CRD provides applied research, data, and technical assistance to the business community to facilitate the growth and retention of jobs in the region. CRD is seeking highly professional, motivated, and talented graduate students to join our team for the next academic year. As a graduate assistant, you will be engaged in real-world economic development research and technical assistance projects that allow you to engage with business and local organizations.
