

MASTER OF SCIENCE IN CRIMINAL JUSTICE

Why a master's degree in Criminal Justice?

The Master of Science in Criminal Justice (MSCJ) is a great choice for individuals who need the MSCJ degree as an entry-level credential for a supervisory or leadership position in criminal justice. The MSCJ degree is also a valuable credential for practitioners looking to advance professionally or for students interested in further preparation for law school or a doctoral program.

Why a MSCJ at Bowling Green State University?

The MSCJ program provides convenience and flexibility by offering students the option of completing the degree online in less than two years or on campus in one year. The program also has a low student-to-faculty ratio, providing regular opportunities for personalized attention and quality interaction between students and faculty.

In addition, all courses are typically taught by full-time faculty. Our faculty are recognized nationally for their research and expertise, and several consult with leading organizations in the profession such as the National Institute of Justice (NIJ) and Federal Bureau of Investigation (FBI).

Learning outcomes

Graduates of the MSCJ program will be able to apply theory and research to criminal justice practice. They will also be able to thoroughly research issues related to crime and criminal justice and use this information to develop and implement evidence-informed responses.

Graduates will also develop the skills needed to assess the general quality of criminal justice research and to offer suggestions for improving this research. Finally, graduates will be able to write and communicate at a level expected of someone holding a leadership position in criminal justice.

Program strengths and uniqueness

- Meets the needs of working professionals by providing a high quality and flexible criminal justice education in our nationally ranked online program.
- Availability of two distinct specializations (Forensic Investigation and Victims and Offenders) in our on-campus program that address contemporary and pressing issues in criminal justice.
- Courses are typically taught by full-time faculty who are actively involved in research and who consult with leading organizations in criminal justice.
- A low student-to-faculty ratio provides opportunities for personalized attention and quality interaction with faculty and other students.
- Degree completion in as little as three semesters of full-time study in our on-campus program or six semesters of part-time study online.
- Provides three start dates for the on-campus program and six start dates for the online program to accommodate individual needs.

Professional opportunities

Individuals earning the MSCJ go on to work and/or advance in federal, state, county, or local law enforcement agencies. They also find employment and/or advance in pre-trial and victims services, public and private security, loss prevention and asset protection, and correctional administration. Graduates have also been hired as case managers, parole and compliance officers, liaison counselors, and college instructors. Some graduates pursue a law or doctoral degree.

"I highly recommend the BGSU to anyone interested in pursuing an advanced degree in criminal justice. All of the courses were filled with relevant and interesting content, some of which I still refer to as a working police supervisor. Anyone who completes this program will have the expertise to remain an important asset to their organization for years to come. My experience will always be something I look back on with fondness and pride."

Admission requirements

To gain regular admission status, applicants must have a minimum of a 2.75/4.0 undergraduate grade point average (GPA) or 3.0 in at least nine credit hours of graduate coursework. Applicants are required to submit scanned copies of official or unofficial transcripts from all institutions attended. Upon admission, final official or notarized copies of transcripts from all institutions where degrees were earned and diplomas from international institutions must be submitted.

Scores from the Graduate Record Exam (GRE) are not required for admission if an applicant meets ONE of the following criteria: cumulative undergraduate GPA of 2.75; undergraduate GPA of 3.0 in final 60 semester hours; undergraduate GPA of 2.5 in final 60 semester hours and 5 years of professional experience; or a GPA of 3.0 in 9 credit hours of graduate coursework.

All applicants must submit a personal statement that details their interest in the MSCJ program and how the degree will help them advance professionally. Applicants must also submit a resume and two letters of recommendation from individuals with knowledge of the applicant's qualifications and ability to complete a graduate degree.

International applicants are also required to submit scores from the International English Language Testing System (IELTS), the Pearson Test of English Academic (PTEA), or the Test of English as a Foreign Language (TOEFL). Successful completion of ELS 112 will also be accepted for this requirement.
